MORE BULL. . .

Thanks to Mrs. R. V. Hardegree of Temple, the increasingly famous Bull Durham sign on the west wall of The Herald, is mentioned in a feature in the Abilene Reporter-News about a similar sign found on a wall of a Reporter-News building.

Katharyn Duff, assistant editor of the Abilene daily, is writing about the restoration of such a sign by an Abilene painter, Tommy Autrey, authorized by Reporter-News publisher A. B. Shelton.

She traced lineage of the sign, finally coming to Mrs. Hardegree's reference to the Cameron sign:

QUOTE: Mrs. R. V. Hardegree of Temple, who had seen the first story on our bull, sent me a clipping from the Waco Tribune, a picture of old Durham sign lately uncovered in Cameron, Texas. It's a lot bigger than ours--123 feet long. It's guessed at "about 90 years old." But it has on it the word "Bull" which does not jibe with what American Tobacco said. Mrs. Hardegree thinks "Bull" might have been added later. END OF QUOTE.

Ms. Duff writes at length about the Abilene sign, also found when old plaster was stripped from the brick wall of an old building the newspaper was replastering along a parking lot. Another old building had been torn down.

This is the pattern which brought out the Bull Durham sign on The Herald's west side. Herald workers stripped away old plaster when somebody noted the bull's eye staring from beneath the old plaster.

The sign is about 75 feet long, not 123. But it is still about three times longer than the Abilene equivalent. And it may be "90 years" old. But we are not sure how old that wall is. It may have been put there before the present west side building of The Herald was built.

All this is historic. Ms. Duff went back to American Tobacco Co. to authenticate the sign. Blackwell Co. of Durham, N. C., was "general advertising agent" and used the Durham bull as a trademark for roll-your-own tobacco. The Duke family bought out the Blackwells, changing the name to Bull Durham.

The signs were painted by a Jule Gilmer Korner, about 300 of them, from 1882 to 1885. Painter's name on the Cameron Bull Durham sign is distinguishable enough to see it isn't Jule Korner.

Both signs are Americana, Texana, or "pop art" of value to the communities where they have been discovered. Abilene is restoring theirs. And I understand it is a project of the Cameron bicentennial to restore this one.

It indeed has drawn a lot of admirable discussion and publicity in the press of Texas. It is an asset for the community and deserves restoration.

Thanks, Abilene, and The Reporter-News, for the mention.

Train Strikes Stalled Car

HEARNE

Larry Dixon, 19, and Kenneth Nelson, 18, of Hearne were treated for cuts and abrasians received when they jumped off a railroad taack seconds before the train struck their stalled car. The car was completely demolished in the accident. The youths had attempted to push the car off the tracks but were forced to jump for it.

Center Sought For Seniors

ROCKDALE

Rockdale is sending out a call for a location to serve as a Senior Citizens Center. A downtown or near-downtown location is being sought for the center. The proposed center has been funded for furnishings through the Hill Country Community Action Assocation. Persons with prospective sites are asked to contact city councilman Collier Perry or Rev. Matt Chambers.

Jail Additions Approved

BELTON

Bell County commissioners voted to accept the new portion of the county jail, with specified exception, after a tour of the building Monday morning, which was part of the weekly court session. The sheriff said there were not enough cells to move all the prisoners from the old part of the jail so that it could be modernized and repainted. Jail population was 104. When both sections of the jail can be occupied, there will be space for about 200 prisoners.

Willie Nelson Charged

GEORGETOWN

A pre-trail hearing for charges filed against country and western singer Willie Nelson is set for Monday. The charges were filed by a group of Liberty Hill residents and land owners after Nelson's Third Annual Fourth of July Picnic, which drew an estimated 70,000. The complaints charge Nelson with violations of the Texas Mass Gathering Act of 1972.

Fund Control Sought

GATESVILLE

Coryell County Judge Doug Smith told county commissioners that the Central Texas Council of Governments seems to be seeking control of revenue sharing funds. He said that CTCOG suggested that each local government body prepare a booklet for them detailing revenue fund money received and spent during the past year. The booklets would be compiled into one large document to be sent to Washington to help secure an extension to the corrent revenue sharing program.

Piece Of History Turns Up

WACO

A principal at a Waco elementary school found a small piece of history at the school last week while cleaning a cabinet that had been locked for some time. The artifact was a small block of pine that had been removed from the White House in Washington, D.C. A note card told that the pine was helping support the roof of the executive mansion of 112 years.

GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies for the construction of a new Buckholts State Bank were held last week on the selected site in Buckholts. Doing the honors were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fuchs, who are directors of the bank. Construction on the new bank is expected to begin soon.

Fuchs Recalls Early Bank Days

Leo Fuchs gave the new a link with the past as he helped in the ground breaking ceremony for the new Buckholts State Bank. His wife, who is also one of the directors, helped in the ceremony.

Fuchs began his relationship with the Buckholts State Bank in 1932 as a cashier when it was reorganized. After years of hard times, the bank was put back into operation by using local capital with stock being offered to the Buckholts community.

Fuchs reports that though depression times were rough and deposits low, the bank was able to slowly strengthen its standing by requiring new stock holders to pay an assessment on their stock.

The bank was strong enough by 1935, that when on "one bright October morning" three inmates, escaped from an Oklahoma prison, robbed the bank of over $4,000 in cash and travelers checks, the loss was not fatal.

Fuchs reports that the inmates had a good thing going when they found thousands of dollars worth of blank travelers checks. "One just made them all payable to him," Fuchs recalls.

"But by this time the bank had enough cash available to cover the loss and to pay off all depositors. We were fortunate not to have a run on the bank," he added.

Though it took 55 years to reach $1 million in assets, once that high was reached the bank grew swiftly. By 14 years later the assets had reached $4 million, where they stand at present.

Eleven years after Fuchs went to work at the bank, J. B. White, former editor and publisher of The Herald, reported that the "Banker Goes Chicken" as Fuchs. left his banking job to join his brother Theo in the hatchery and poultry breeding business.

While busy with their birds, Fuchs and his wife have both remained connected with the Buckholts bank. Both have served as directors for the bank since its depression years reorganization.

Public Meeting To Discuss Work On SH36

An informal public meeting to discuss the reconstruction of SH 36 from the AT&SF Railroad underpass to 1.0 miles of the US 77 intersection will be held on Tuesday, September 30, from 10 a.m. to noon. The meeting will be held on the project in the vicinity of the Pitt Grill.

The purpose of the meeting is to give all interested citizens or groups an opportunity to become fully acquainted with the proposed reconstruction. Project design, proposed project development, time schedules, effect on adjoining land owners, and any other information desired will be available.

All interested citizens, groups, community leaders, organizations, or representatives thereof, are invited.

Two Suspects Charged Here

Two Louisiana men are in Milam County Jail after being arrested in Rockdale Wednesday. They were sought for failure to pay for gas at the Cape Oil Co. self-service station in Cameron.

Charged with possession of marijuana and possession of a prohibited weapon were James A. Dickerson of Baton Rouge, La., and Randy Greg of Baker, La. Bond of $25,000 was set for each of the men.

The men were placed in the county jail.

Tax Collectors Have 'Dry Run'

Two representatives of the state comptroller's office were in Cameron Thursday to collect some $35,000 in delinquent state and city sales taxes, but no money was collected as they found the businesses closed.

They were to contact six businesses in the city, but all were closed. The representatives, who came out of the Belton office, said they had seized eight businesses in an 8 county area.

Fire Ants Moving Up From SE

Imported fire ants are moving into the southeast part of Milam County, according to an agronomist with the state agriculture office in Austin.

Jack Bowmer, agronomost with the state ag office, told The Herald Friday that the ants are moving in from the southeast and are now also infesting Robertson, Brazos, and Burleson Counties.

Bowmer said his maps showing exactly where the ants are were out of the office but he said he would call that information in to be more specific this week.

Bowmer said identification of the imported fire ant is somewhat difficult, and suspected ants are first sent to the USDA in Houston for identification. If they are positively identified in Houston, they are then sent to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. for positive identification.

"You can't just pick up an ant and tell what it is," Bowmer said.

The imported fire ant's mound can grow to be knee high, and in hard land looks something like a sponge, the agronomist said. In sand land, the nests may be built up against a tree or fence post. He said the mounds can tear up a mower or other farm machinery. The domestic fire ant's nest looks like a pile of coffee grounds.

The only product available to fight the ants is Mirex, and the agriculture department has bait available upon request. The bait can also be distributed through the county agent's office.

Bowmer said he did not know how much longer Mirex will be available for use to fight the ants. Use of the pesticide is involved in a hearing now, he said, with the Environmental Protection Agency.

He said some applications were made by plane some time back in south Texas.

The imported fire ant is a protein eater, Bowmer said, and will eat antying greasy at first, including newly germinated seedlings. They will take meat if they can get it, he said.

Fire ants have been known to kill new-born calves in the field, and the bite of one can cause a sore that takes several weeks to heal up.

Class In Action...

This is not only a bicentennial city. It is a renaissance town. And we have the flag flying beneath the Texas Lone Star to prove it.

The Cameron flag, designed and sewn by Cameronites, and documented in Milam history of more than 140 years, is flying on one of the Mall poles downtown.

The bicentennial flag is flying beneath the American flag on the other Mall pole.

Cameron indeed understands the past is prologue. The town also has a coat of arms in Cameron Public Library, which identifies with a British ship sunk in World War II bearing the Cameron name. It was part of the old lend-lease deal in 1940 when the U. S. gave Britain 50 "over-aged destroyers."

City states in history have been the fountainheads of culture. Rome, Athens, Renaissance Italian cities, all the great cities of Europe, Asia, and for that matter, any part of the populous world. . . .regardless of continent or age in history.

The great cities of the Renaissance were anywhere from 40,000 to the size of Rome, probably a million or more people.

Cameron is only 6,000. But the elements of a city state articulate themselves, become apparent in things like a city flag, a community consciousness about excellence in leadership, athletics, culture, professionalism, academia, whatever until a mode is established which is more than style, more than grace, but class in action.

Tradition takes a new dimension, a contemporary depth, which plumbs the past to well up a future.

That flag is flying. An identity is clear. An old Texas town has indeed attained its renaissance.

"Low Down"
FROM THE
Congressional Record
By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

FOOD STAMP FIASCO CALLED DISGRACE

Rep. Philip M. Crane (Ill.) ". . . It is high time the entire food stamp program was carefully reconsidered. . .

"The fact is that food stamps are used in large measure as the Chicago Tribune notes "to buy status or convience foods which often provide less nutrition than the cheaper staples that would have been used without the food stamp program." . . .

"I wish to share with my colleagues the important editorial "The Food Stamp Fiasco," as it appeared in the Chicago Tribune. . . ." (Excerpts follow):

President Ford had his ears pinned back last winter when he sought to raise the price recipients are required to pay for food stamps, and perhaps his critics were right. Rising the price to everybody, including the genuinely needy, was a clumsy way of calling attention to a disgrace that demands immediate attention.

With nearly one out of every 11 Americans getting food stamps paid for at least in part by the taxpayer (in Puerto Rico, the figure is one out of every two), the extent of the fiasco is apparent to almost everybody.

Food stamps were convieved back in the '930s and revived in 1964 as a double-barreled program to provide a market for farm products and "to provide for improved levels of nutrition among economically needy households. The program has long outlived its first purpose.

Food stamps have become a way of life at most of our colleges, even among students from wealthy families, and taxpayers are being forced to support strikes by paying for food stamps for strikers.

Sen. George McGovern says that most of those eligible for food stamps under present rules are not even getting them; if they applied, the cost would rise by another $12 billion or so.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A complete review of the welfare system in California resulted in thousands of "free loaders" being removed from the welfare rolls. The howls of protest were ignored. Those entitled to welfare, gratefully, found their checks substantially increased.

"The Federal Food Stamp Fiasco is only in the "conversation stage" among congressmen. Some proposals to correct the food stamp fiasco are in order and the buck should not be passed to the Health, Education, and Welfare Department

Red Sea's Animal Life Attracts Biologists

© NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

CHEEK TO CHEEK in the Red Sea, it's not Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers but a pair of moray eels. The fish, two feet long, peer from a sunken buoy in this unusual photograph from the September National Geographic.

The Red Sea holds billions of dollars in mineral wealth, but the incredible array of animal life swarming through its tepid waters is even more valuable to scientists.

Everything from shy sharks to seeing-eye fish live in he seas, attracting marine biologists from around the world to study life forms found nowhere else on earth.

Dr. Eugenie Clark, who has been diving along the length of the Red Sea for 25 years, writes in the September National Geographic:

"The Red Sea is perhaps the most extraordinary large body of water on earth. It has a higher salinity than any ocean. No rivers run into it. Scorched by tropical sun and seared by desert drought--annual rainfall averages less than an inch--it loses each year through evaporation the equivalent of about six feet of water."

Wealth Beneath SEA

To replace this deficit, water flows in cheifly from the Indian Ocean through a shallow strait at the southern end and, to a lesser extent, from the Suez Canal northwest of the sea.

"Most ocean depths are cold," Dr. Clark writes, "but the cigar-shaped Red Sea holds warm abyssal water, especially in certain volcanic depths where temperatures reach 138 degrees Fahrenheit. These hot spots hoard potential fortunres of immeasurable worth: in places 5,000 times more iron, 25,000 times more mananese, and 30,00 times more lead than normal seawater.

"And the value of the gold, silver, copper, and zinc in the upper 30--of a possible 300-feet of sediments alone has been estimated at more than two billion dollars."

But biologists are more interested in fish than minerals. Despite the aridity and harsh sterility of the sea's surroundings, its coral-encrusted margins, from the surface to a deph of some 200 feet, concentrate a collection of living things unique on this planet. Investigators still are finding species new to science in the sea.

Shark Flees From Humans

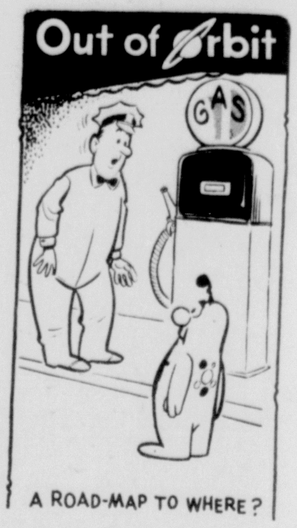
Dr. Clark saw a shark that resembles the aggressive Indo-Pacific gray reef shark but vehaves quite differently. fleeing if confronted by a human diver. She describes 15 of these sharks in a courtship frenzy:

"A female broke away from the throng and swam upward with a male following and biting her repeatedly, tearing the edges of her fins, slashing the sides of her body, leaving a crescent of tooth marks on her flanks.

"It looked like vicious, aggressive behaviour;but we knew well what size chunks he might have torn from her, and so could only conclude that these were 'love bites.'' We were the first to record the courtship biting by these sharks anywhere in the open sea."

Dr. Clark also recorded the behavior of the goby, a seeing-eye fish that has a close relationship with a small shrimp. The shrimp is half blind but able to dig a hole in the sea floor that both fish and shrimp call home.

While the shrimp works, the goby stands watch. Using its antenna as a guideline, the shrimp, which lacks peripheral vision, stays in constant contact with the goby. The fish transmits information by its wiggling motions.



Panama, US Resume Talks On New Treaty

By Colin Hale

PANAMA CITY Reuter--Panama and the United States have resumed talks on the controversial issue of the American-controlled canal amid new optimism that the U.S. Defense Department and the Pentagon will accpet concessions.

The United States' roving ambassador, Ellsworth Bunker, returned here on September 7 to pick up the threat of the long-running negotiations after a five-month break marked by increasing opposition to compromise on both sides.

Just as significant as Bunker's return was the statement issued here earlier this month by General George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, after talks with Panamanian leaders.

He said he had told Panamanian leader Omar Todrijos that the joint chiefs and the defense department were "committed to working out a new treaty" which would remove American sovereignty over the canal and its 550-square mile surrounding zone.

The announcement does not mean that negotiations on the treaty, begun in earnest 191 months ago after years of on-again off-again talks, can be rounded off tomorrow. There are still plenty of major disagreements to overcome.

But it does indicate that the defense establishment, which has long been a principal though tacit opponent of the talks, will not automatically block the passage of any new agreement which finally emerges.

While the talks have been in abeyance since last April, opposition to a new treaty had been growing rapidly in the United States, putting both Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who initiated the talks, and General Torrijos in a difficult position.

In Washington, the House voted to cut off funds for any talks which could alter U.S. rights over the canal and the zone.

More seriously, 37 senators--enough to block ratification of a new treaty--declared themselves opposed to any modification of the terms of the existing 1903 treaty, which lets the U.S. run the zone as sovereign territory.

Dr. Kissinger then said publicly that unless a deal was reached anti-American guerrilla activity could emerge in Panama, and Bunker warned that unless the U.S. was willing to modify its position Panama's tolerance of the American presence would evaoporate.

Meanwhile, General Torrijos has been coming under increasing pressure at home to get the new agreement. Domestically, his government, which came to power in 1968 military coup, has banked its existence on attaining a new pact.

He has been obliged to hold a series of meetings with radical students and civic groups to explain the delays and waned in a series of press interviews that violence was inevitable if negotiations failed.

Bunker said on his return here: "We recognize that the interlude since our last negotiating session has been the source of some speculation, even anxiety."

But he then went on to say that further interludes might be necessary in the future--possibly a hint that little can be usefully discussed in the months immediately before the 1976 U. S. presidential elections.

President Ford's probable main challenger for the Republican nomination, former California governor Ronald Reagan, has been stressing opposition to a new canal treaty as part of his platform.

Earlier this year, U. S. sources in panama had been saying the negotiations were more than 50 percent complete and that a new draft treaty would probably be ready before the end of 1975.

British Taxes Drive Stars Out

By Patrick Massey

LONDON

Reuter--In a gathering climate of economic distress, Britons are engaged in fascinated debate on the plight of pop music stars driven from their homeland by a surfeit of riches.

The talk centers on popular idols who, in order to stay in the millionaire class, have forsaken such joys as the English pub and the game of cricket to settle abroad among less demanding taxmen.

The problem was highlighted in a weekend speech by Sir Geoffrey Howe, economic affairs spokesman for the poposition Conservative Party and an unlikely champion for pop stars.

Sr. Geoffrey said the emigration of high-earning performers like the Rolling Stones, Elton John, and Rod Stewart represented a "fame drain" which the British treasury could ill afford.

He suggested the treasury actually might make a profit by lowering its top rate of income tax to 50 percent and thereby lure back those earnings which now find their way into banks in California, France, or Spain.

The present top rate of British income tax is 83 percent on all earnings exceeding $42,000 a year. If this income derives from investment, the tax rate jumps to 98 percent.

The list of exiles is long. Rolling Stone Mick Jagger and actor Roger Moore lives in the south of France. Singers Elton John, Rod Stewart, and ex-Beatlers drummer Ringo Starr live in Los Angeles. Golfer Tony Jacklin moved to the English Channel island of Jersey where taxes are levied at a fraction of the mainland rate.

"Of course," Jagger told the London Daily Mail, "I miss not being able to stay in Britain as long as I like. I hate being allowed only 90 days a year to visit my own country."

Ninety days is the maximum visit allowed if a non-resident Briton wishes to stay clear of British tax.

Supporters of Sir Goeffrey's agrument say that quite apart from losing the actual income of the emigrants the country loses the money and foreign earnings they generate for others around them.

Some critics suggested the British treasury should follow the example of revenue men in the United States and France who, in order to encourage the settlement of high earners, strike individual bargains under which the payer is accorded special tax advantages.

Roger Moore told a newspaper he was saving about one million dollars a year in taxes by living in France.

The latest pop group to talk about emigrating is the Bay City Rollers. The London Evening Standard commented: "Clearly we can get along well enough without the Bay City Rollers. But is it sensible to squeeze their earnings so hard that the group may now end up paying no tax at all in Britain."

Consumer Market Report

With mean prices stable, fruit and vegetable counters are showing the only signs of change in Texas grocery stores this week, one authority says.

"Soft fruits are one highlight at produce counters--with prunes, peaches, plums, and grapes in best supply.

"And bananas are one of the better buys," Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt reported.

"Cantaloupe and watermelon supplies are on the decline, but some good values are still available.

"For high nutritive value at comparatively low costs, you can't beat potatoes, carrots, and cabbage.

"Soft-shell squash, beets, corn, and cucumbers are in relatively good supply--along with okra, tomatoes, purplehull and cream peas."

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She said apples are more plentiful, but prices remain relatively high, and new supplies of fresh pumpkin are appearing.

Vet Should Check For Traveling

The Veterans Administration today pointed to a good reason veterans should check with the agency before traveling or establishing residence abroad.

Under the law, Jack Coker, regional director, explained, VA cannot provide certain benefits in foreign countries. Thus, a veteran who knows what benefits are available is better equipped to plan wisely, Coker noted.

For example, before traveling outside the United States, a veteran should obtain a statement of his service-connected disabilities from the VA office which maintains his medical records.

In an emergency, an eligible veteran is entitle to VA-paid hospitalization for service-connected conditions. The veteran or a representative must present the VA statemen along with an application for medical benefits to the embassy or consular office in the foreign country within 72 hours of hospitalization. Notification of outpatient treatment must be made within 15 days.

RIO DE JANEIRO

Crowds in Rio De Janeiro suburbs are turning more and more frequently to mob justice, lynching robbers they think they have caught red-handed. In recent weeks, mobs, sometimes 500 strong, rallying to the cry of "stop thief," have killed four people and seriously injured several more, using everything from blows, kicks, stones, and to iron bars and firearms.

SUKHUMI, USSR

Tea drinking is as much a part of everyday Russian life as vodka, furry hats and long, hard winners. Traditionally dispenses from ornate brass samovars and drunk with cherry jam and spoonfuls of sugar, six out of every 10 cups of tea the Russians drink are brewed from home-grown leaves. These are cultivated in sub-tropical plantations along the eastern Black Sea coast near this small Caucasion port.

SYDNEY

The Sydney Opera House, Australia's most expensive and porbably most famous landmark, is still at the center of controversy as it prepares to celebrate its second birthday. The huge building with its sail-like roof was opened by Britain's Queen Elizabeth on Oct. 28, 1973 after more than 10 years of bitter argument in Australia over escalating costs and design difficulties.

LISBON

Eighteen months of revolution have wreaked havoc on the elegant buildings of central Lisbon, with scarcely a corner of wall space escapting the attentions of political bill-posters and left-wing graffiti artists. Militants of the Communist Party, the Maoist MRPP and the Socialists as well as agents of the more staid center parties have exercised a form of revolutionary overkill on the sides of buildings.

KUWAIT

The African state of Sudan may become the granary for the Arab world with the help of Middle East oil money. A plan for this has been drawn up by the Kuwait-based Arab fund for economic and social development. The fund officials described it as a totally new concept in development and a departure from traditional Arab economic cooperation. Sudanese government approval for the plan was given last month.

LONDON

The British steel industry employs two to three times as many men to produce a ton of steel as its competitors in other European countires, according to the chairman of the state-owned British Steel Corporation (BSC), Sir Monty Finniston. The industry is suffering not only from over-manning and low productivity, but also from obsolescent plant and machinery, from lack of investment, and from bad labor relations.

VIENNA

Three weeks before general elections, Austrian politicans are still looking for a vote-catching issue. The campagin threatens to end as lamely as it began--in a country which since World War II has prided itself on a tradition of political togetherness rather than strife. Voters will face a choice between personalities and basic trends--Socialist or Conservative.

ADDIS ABABA

For the first time in Ethiopia's 3,000 year history, accurate sample figures on the poverty and ignorance among its peasant masses have been issued here. They are contained in a survey, just published by the Ethiopian Agriculture Ministry. Compiled between last Decenber and March this year, it reveals that more than 23 million of Ethiopia's estimated 27 million population--the second highest in black Africa after Nigeria--work on the land.

Bridging the communication gap with his accustomed panache, comic star Danny Kaye, UNICEF Ambassador to the World's Children, ad-libs with a youngster during a recent tour of India. Donning his new title of National UNICEF Day Chairman, Danny will help the U.S. celebrate the 25th anniversary of Trick or Treat for UNICEF. Sharing the UNICEF Day spotlight will be Mrs. Gerald R. Ford, Honorary Chairwoman of National UNICEF Day, and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Honorary Vice Chairwoman. (UNICEF Photo)

Family Planning Services Available

Almost all kinds of birth control methods available can be obtained through the Milam County Family Planning center, according to Jessie Mae Webb, Family Planning Outreacher for Milam County.

Any women wishing information on birth control methods are encouraged to visit the center located at Fourth and Travis. Miss Webb states that any interested woman will receive information on all methods and will be able to choose, with the help of a doctor, which method of birth control is best suited for her needs.

A doctor's examination and pap smear are provided at weekly clinics. After being perscribed a certain birth control method, the patient will receive complete counseling on use of that method.

Clinics are held almost every Tuesday evening from 6-8 p.m. and once a month on wednesday mornings from 10-12 a.m. Dr. G. W. Speck of Scott and White and Dr. S. H. Richardson of St. Edward Hospital volunteer their services for these clinics.

Pregnancy tests can also be given by the center. Though a woman may not be counseled through her pregnancy, the center will help her find a personal physician, according to Miss Webb. If money is a problem, the center will help her find a doctor or midwife that she can afford.

Any family related problems or diseases may also be treated at the center.

Miss Webb spends much time reaching women who wish such services by going door to door and by word of mouth. As Outreacher, she travels throughout Milam County giving information to and setting up appointments for interested women in the communities.

Mrs. Pam Geistweidt, counslor for the center, explains that gas limitations are often a problem, and so she encourages any interested woman to come to the center in person to see Miss Webb from 8-9 a.m. or 4-5 p.m. any week day.

According to Mrs. Geistweidt, the services are open to anyone, but low-income families are especially urged to use these services.

CLUBS

The Ladies of the St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary will present a program, featuring Jane Justin on October 16, 1975 at 4 p.m. in the Methodist Fellowship Hall in Cameron.

Mrs. Justin will present a talk on "Collectables" and display twelve original table settings. Following the program she will also be available to autograph copies of her book. Refreshments will be served by auxiliary members.

Tickets for the event are currently being sold by auxiliary members for $3.00 per person. Tickets may be obtained from any member or by calling Mrs. Bill Burns at 697-2267.

Proceeds from the fund-raising event will go toward the purchase of a Kriesl-man resuscitator for the hospital. This unit serves new born babies in difficulty or as a warming unit for the babies.

In Rockdale, tickets may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Gertrude Hale or Mrs. Jesse Holloway.

In Rosebud, tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Mary Kate Baca. Tickets are also available at the Back Door Shoppe and Bernice's in Cameron.

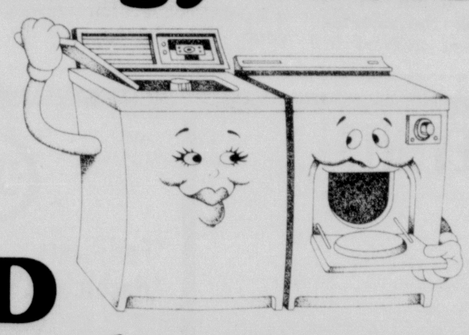
Reducing plan for energy users



Plan D

How to save electricity when using washers and dryers

1. Choose proper wash cycle. ("Hot" setting isn't necessary with most modern fabrics.)
2. Use long wash cycle only with full laundry load.
3. If washer has water level control, choose level to match load size. (Saves hot water and energy used to heat it.)
4. Clean dryer's lint filter after each load to help dryer efficiency and reduce drying time.
5. Don't overdry clothes. Set timer according to garment's fiber content.
6. Sort clothes for drying by weight and texture of fabric to avoid extra run-time for 2 or 3 slow-dry items.
7. Vent dryer to outside to prevent indoor moisture build-up. Follow manufacturer's operating instructions carefully.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it: natural gas, coal and oil. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting. And, in as many other ways as possible, TP&L is reducing its own uses of electricity.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call or see the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

O J T Teams Bow To Rockdale

The thirst continues for a victory by the seventh graders of O. J. Thomas as they were shut out by the Rockdale Jr. High Tigers 12-0. Earlier in the season the Yoe Yoes had battled the Tigers to a 14-12 last quarter loss.

The Yoe Yoe defense fought the battle in the first quarter with the Yoe Yoe offense never touching the pigskin. The defense held strong the Tiger offense that had proven to have a balance passing and running attack just weeks before.

The first Yoe Yoe offense took its first possession as the second quarter began. On a fourth down play the punt was blocked and the ball sailed into the end zone with a Tiger recovering for the Tiger touchdown. The point after for 2 failed.

Another Yoe Yoe mistake was the cause of the second and last touchdown of the evening.

A Yoe Yoe fumble on the 4 yard line set the Tiger offense in the driver's seat. On the next offensive play the Tiger fullback lunged into the end zone. The point after attempt failed and the Tigers led 12-0.

The Tiger seventh grade continued their dominance of the field and chalked up a second win over the OJT Yoe Yoes 12-0.

In the eighth grade grid action last Thursday night, the OJT Yoe Yoes split the win-loss record with Rockdale Junior High, this time closing out on the shorter end 22-18. Earlier in the season the Yoe Yoes defeated the Tigers 24-12.

On the first offensive possession of the Tigers, they started a long drive down their home field and ended with a touchdown backed by a 2 point conversion that was good. The Tigers took the early lead, 8-0.

The score held only until Dean Lewis touched the pigskin on the kick off and ran through five Tigers. Lewis went into the pay-dirt, standing tall.

The difference throughout the evening was the PAT department. On the Yoe Yoe try for two fell short.

The eighth grade team of OJT found another scoring weapon in James McLerran when he jumped the magic-line from 8 yards out. The score was set up on a fumble by the Tigers on the kick off.

The point after attempt again failed and the Yoe Yoes took a shakey 12-8 lead.

As the half neared, the Tigers went to their aerial attack and regained a lead over the Yoe Yoes, 14-12.

The second half of the grid action was highlighted with each team scoring once. For the Yoe Yoes it was Dean Lewis from 19 yards out with the PAT failing. The Yoe Yoes held the lead until the fourth quarter when the Tigers got the jump, and squeezed by the Yoe Yoes 22-18.

The difference being the PATs.

The OJT Yoe Yoes will return to the field after a week's vacation and will open their season against Rosebud-Lott Jr. High. The Cameron teams will travel to Rosebud and the seventh graders will begin at 6 p.m.

O J T Volleyball Girls Undefeated

"We're undefeated" is the chant that can be heard from the girls O. J. Thomas volleyball team that has defeated Rockdale and Belton Jr. Highs in their first two pre-season games.

In the opener the OJT girls traveled to Rockdale and gained two game wins with the 7th and 8th graders defeating Rockdale.

In the 7th grade game Denise Kelly spiked her way to high point status with 12 points leading the OJT cause. The match scores were: 1st, Cameron 15 Rockdale 7; 2nd, Cameron 17 Rockdale 15.

In the 8th grade action Vicki brashear and Donna Lehnert paved the way for OJTs big win over Rockdale the girls scored 11and 8 points respectively.

The match scores were: 1st Cameron 15, Rockdale 5; 2nd, Cameron 6 Rockdale 15; and the deciding match Cameron 16 Rockdale 14.

In last Thursday night action the OJT team s went undefeated and scored wins over Belton Jr. High.

Denise kelley and Betty Sue Chubb led the scoring with 12 and 8 points respectively. The OJT girls won it intwo matches, 16-14 and 15-8.

In 8th grade B action Laura Angell tallied 18 points followed by Mary Alice Vasquez with 8. The OJT B team won 15-2, 4-15, and the deciding match 15-7.

The 8th grade A team finished off the night with a near perfect shut out holding the Belton team scoreless in the second match.

Vicki Brashear, with 16 points, and Judith Moore, with 11, led the scoring. The match went 15-7 and 15-0

P P&K Set For Oct. 4

The 15th annual Punt, Pass, and Kick competition will be held in Rockdale at Tiger Field Oct. 4 for Cameron, Rockdale, Milano, Gause, and Lexington youths.

The National Football League and Ford dealers of America sponsor this activity that has been successful in sharpening punting, passing, and kicking skills. Many pros have been participants in this program as youngsters and the program has registered over 11 million in the past 14 years. This is the largest single program for youths of its kind in America.

Youths from 8 to 13 years of age are eligible to enter and there is no entrance fee.

The youngsters will be competing with others in their own age groups. There is no equipment needed nor is there anyone to contact.

There have been questions raised about whether participation would interfere with UIL regulations. According to officials, participation in no way would affect their eligibility or amateur standing.

The PP&K tips book will be given by the sponsoring For d dealer, GaitherMotor Co. inRockdale, to competitors. The booklet includes a complete set of rules, exercises, and important tips on punting, passing, and place-kicking.

Scrubber Not Necessary, Utility Company Contends

Texas Utilities Company informed the Texas Air Control Board in Waco Friday that it will not install a $26 million anti - pollution scrubber on a lignite-fueled generating unit now under construction near Mount Pleasant in East Texas.

T. L. Austin, Jr., board chairman of T. U. told the TACB that installing such an expensive device makes no sense and is a rip-off against electric customers who must pay the bill, yet receive no significant benefits.

Texas Utilities is the parent company of Texas Power & Light Company, Dallas Power & Light Company and Texas Electric Service Company. Together, the three firms supply electricity to about one-third of the population of Texas.

Austin, former president of TP&L, said scrubbers will not significantly improve the quality of air people breathe and that experts, including the Federal Power Commission, have concluded scrubbers are not technologically feasible.

Furthermore, the solid waste created by scrubbers is environmentally detrimental, Austin explained. "I have a gut feeling that five or ten years from now the public is going to rise up in arms and blame us for wasting hundreds of millions of dollars on scrubber systems that spread gook all over east Texas."

Austin told the board that because what the system is being asked to do makes no sense. . .a scrubber will not be installed on the Monticello no. 3 unit.

"As a result," he added, "You may have no recourse but to order a shutdown of construction."

If a shutdown is ordered and the electric companies forced to substitute oil for lignite to meet customer demands, this action would require additional fuel costs of at least $80 million per year and would add nine million barrels of oil to the nation's deficit problem, he said.

"Therefore, if you order the system to shut down construction, we shall probably be forced to put in the scrubber," Austin stated, "but it will be your decision, not ours."

Austin said that "although I sincerely believe the TACB and Texas Utilities Company are all working to serve the best interest of the public, T.U. cannot in good conscience sit back and accept an added burden of $36 million for this unnecessary equipment. It just doesn't make sense, either environmentally, economically, technologically or from a resource conservation standpoint."

Austin said the Environmental Protection Agency's ambient air standards for sulfur dioxide have never been exceeded as a result of T.U.'s lignite plant operations. Additionally, he stated, the increased investment and higher operating costs of a scrubber - equipped lignite unit adds about 18 per cent to the cost of every kilowatt - hour produced.

This comes at a time when customers are already deeply concerned over rising cost and when system companies are at this moment having to ask regulatory bodies for rate increases to support their construction programs, he explained.

Austin told the board that the U. S. Court of Appeals for the third circuit, responding in a suit filed by three electric utility companies challenging the EPA, ruled last month that the agency was arbitrary in setting sulfur emmission regulations and did not have sufficient knowledge concerning either the technological or economic feasibility of scrubbers.

TJC Fall Enrollment Increases

Temple Junior College's fall semester enrollment figures reflect a 54 percent increase over enrollment figures of two years ago, President Marvin R. Felder told the TJC Board of Regents Monday night.

A total of 1888 students have registered for classes, a 20 percent increase over 1974 fall enrollment and a 54 percent increase over 1973 fall enrollment.

In response to the growth the board granted permission to solicit bids for construction of an 80- to 90-car parking lot behind the Fine Arts Building.

The lot will be financed with reserve funds designated for such operating expenses and "with sacrifice to other programs or activities," Felder said.

Among the reasons for the rapid increase he cited the Developmental Studies Program, for students needing additional study before enrolling in required courses for specific majors and the Allied Health program, which provides training for licensed vocational nursing, respiratory therapy, and related fields under the Technical Vocational Division.

That day the Lord made a covenant with Abraham, saying: "Unto thy seed have I given this land."

Seniors Can Audit TJC Courses

Persons 65 and over are permitted to audit any courses offered at Temple Junior College, according to Charles L. Stout, college registrar.

The TJC Board of Regents approved th policy last week permitting senior citizens to audit courses on a space available basis, he said.

"Auditing allows instructional benefits without tuition fees, although no credit toward a degree is granted," said Dr. Marvin R. Felder, president.

"We are hopeful that senior citizens will inquire about this program and use it freely."
